

Jason Fields announced as Lead Ambassador for Black Wealth Networks (BWN)

COSTA MESA, Calif. Black Wealth Networks (BWN), is excited to announce Jason Fields as its Lead Ambassador. Starting July 22nd 2018, Mr. Fields will be responsible for leading BWN into its next chapter and driving awareness for African Americans who have largely been under served by the investment industry.

BWN is an investment portal solely for African Americans. We believe empowering all income levels to create individual and collective wealth building opportunities, to save and invest towards core financial goals such as a child's college education, a new home, or a comfortable retirement.

“Jason M. Fields is a businessman, financial literacy expert, author, and politician and an advocate for his community – he is the perfect ambassador to talk about investing for individuals to achieve financial goals. We admire him for his principles, talents and ability to juggle a demanding schedule” said Stan Smith – CEO SaveDaily.

BWN's business model promotes and facilitates a circular income flow within the African American sub-economy and thereby strengthens the Black community.

To learn more about BWN and the platforms unique, low-cost, high-end financial services capabilities, please visit www.BWNOnline.com.

About Jason Fields:

Jason M. Fields is a sought after international businessman, financial literacy expert, author, and politician. Jason's mission is to work diligently to help others reach their fullest potential. Whether Jason is empowering business executives to strengthen their practices, or equipping community members with the knowledge, tools, and resources to make purposeful financial decisions, his message is the same: Once knowledge is sought and best practices are implemented, there are no limits to business or personal success. Jason is currently the managing director of Dark Knight Capital Ventures and the co-founder and partner of Diversify Forex, a foreign currency, stock, and binary options investment education firm. Additionally Jason is serving his 5th term as the State Representative to the Wisconsin State Assembly District in which he became the first African-American male to be elected to the 11th Assembly District in 2005.

BWN and Alliance With SaveDaily

BWN has partnered with SaveDaily Financial Group LLC. SaveDaily's low-cost, private label platform enables banks, brokerages, and non-traditional financial service providers to profitably offer high-end financial services to anyone, regardless of income, account size, or activity levels. SaveDaily offers record-keeping services to its intermediary partners, as well as directly to clients through a variety of white-labeled interfaces. Through SaveDaily's proprietary technology, clients can deliver a cost-efficient, high-quality investment portfolio to everyday savers everywhere. SaveDaily is headquartered in Costa Mesa, California. For more information, visit www.SaveDaily.com.